

A preliminary study on the mind, body, spirit and soul by Roberto Barros

THE WORLD AND THE INDIVISIBLE MIND BEYOND LIFE

I want to express a little about theurgy that we can rarely understand that is a wonderful celestial art that has angels until God who made man in his image and likeness and that we will be able to unravel some mysteries that I have been studying about the strength of the mind that creates and makes miracles about human beings that are not omnipotent and that are omnipresent and that we can reach the key of life about mortals that we are rarely called upon and do not know the relativity of life of the mental sciences that can attract and create something related to life that we can study well in depth its strengths and particularities with the man and his mind that feels and thinks every second about a profound existence of building and destroying that we can unravel various mysteries in life in which we must study about the cosmos and the atomic creation of each atom that it is built on the electricity of the soul and we are going to talk a little about personal magnetism that surrounds us and builds us for a characteristic of completing us on any relationship with nature that can favor us such creations with nature and I want to say with beautiful words that we can develop theurgy with our mentalizations about the mind and the will that is conceived by training the mind with closed eyes that we see and discover the mental cosmos that is called space and when we identify with feelings the soul identifies with the mind and we can create something perhaps related to life with beautiful images and just a little training.

c) The ethereal element that composes the celestial spheres, distinct in its almost immateriality from the four natural properties. (earth, water, air, fire) that constitute the dense bodies in the sublunar world, ether.

However we can understand about the elemental formation that god can by nuclear nature have made life on a circumstance of the universe that he was formed between perhaps a more eccentric nature and by all things was made in his likeness that we could reach a conclusion that he serious homogeneous to the universe that on the relativities of life everything could have been created on great atomic elemental transformations that we can understand almost the origin of the universe as the big bang that can be on a great elemental variety with nature in which we can here transcribe another one story that would take us to the frontiers of the unknown that is almost unknown as the existence that transports us and makes us develop our functions on a tracing of the relativities of life in which we can talk about an alchemyinvisible that life and life could have come out of nowhere, so much so that maybe out of nowhere it would cause death that we relatively suspect that it is the subtle life in the universe that leads us to certain natures that everything can turn into light or darkness as the universe that doesn't stop with its rhythm about the existence of building and destroying to start again and that's how life would be simply about its modalities and relationship with the nature that composes us and gave us life.

Now I want to reach an empty space that maybe I don't think we can see and that would simply be the paradise that we can understand about its atoms and aspects.

where nature will teach us to prescribe life over each atom and hidden existence and that everything would perhaps be on an empty space where nature would be indestructible and indivisible where we can unveil another world about perhaps certain ironies created by a physical and elementary concept about the life where we look with our eyes closed at the mental cosmos and identify with a more subtle nature as perhaps the birth of god over life that could be that magnificent world to our omnipresent eyes that would be fictionalized on a cosmic relativity of the life of the human being in that we can understand that we are a small universe because we are likeness of God and we can over everything that exists in it and everything can happen and so if nature is created in a being that by that nature we distinguish life and its existences with man and the universe.

Let's talk about certain creations both natural and artificial of the mind that you can create certain images on an imagination of the mind that on the emotional fluids a mental image is projected by us who think such things and create different things about the subtle force of the soul that by feeling the subconscious of the human mind is created a form that supposedly as a flow of image that would transform into an image like an atomic nucleus that we can simply a little see its formation and creation in the form of the imagination that could either be liquid or solid that lies between the natural or artificial invisible planes that complete on a cadence metalized by the imagination that we can see its cosmological aspect between the subtle energy of the soul generated by the nuclear chemistry of the spirit making each atom and atomic effect getting on the photon elements to be later processed by the subtle electricity passing and returning to the normal state of consciousness that maybe we enter an alpha state to project the image on a timed effect of the soul and I say that the soul has its particularities of creating some existence that in the higher planes of the spirit everything becomes alive and life is created about electricity and chemistry of the spirit passing to the subtle state of the soul about electron charges and exits to the subtle state of the soul where we see an immense void on the mind that is possessed of emotions and creations that to the space planes we could call them atomic elements that in physics we call nuclear and magnetic that on the relations of the body and soul everything can be developed on perhaps a more dynamic world by the magnanimous relativity of the soul together with the spirit everything is reaction and creation and we can establish a fiction about the power of the mind that works and works miracles.

Leaving everything for a cosmic mental imagination that we can Prescribe the existence of god and life and so on we describe several ways to create something related to life with a more indivisible alchemy about a great entrance and exit door of the holy spirit that can be developed about an extraordinary clairvoyant point of the soul that enters into combination and atomic elemental projection that the mind conceives certain images by the force of thought that something is created that we dream and think and thus it would be a alchemical transformation of spirit into soul that the mind is transmuted by the force of consciousness the creation of a life, a matter that may perhaps have life and so on, the life of something originated and was created from the mind to the mental space in a state of time and space, with life becoming something relatively created that was of this importance in nothingness and consequently became created life on anything that out of nothing was made to sprout through a more intimate reactivity of man with the mental universe and nature revealed to him its resistance through which everything can conceive life for him on a creation and relationship with the mind of the human being and Thus a creation was made in life and the plans of God were perhaps known by a great and valuable imagination of man and the mind that we can create the four elements by their own continuous force something of heat as (Water, Air, Earth and Fire) .

And so we apprehend the perhaps invisible alchemy that would be called out of nowhere towards the immaterial planes if we establish certain creations walking and transmuting to the dense state on perhaps an imaginary concentration of man passing to machines on a great concentration of electron charges, protons and neutrons that when creating a matter or a body that, depending on the cosmic formation and man's intention on nature, would stop at various metaphysics and chemistry that would remain in any substances, both liquid and solid, in creations that man will perhaps someday unravel. its mysteries and thus cosmology will develop on various physical and chemical aspects that in the end proved and told us the true creation of God on life based on a great science of studying the birth or construction of life making life more static and the more developed human being together with the mind that feels, creates and sees every construction and relativity that may be contained on nature and man.

All this is called theurgy where man has an understanding of certain sciences as in the philosophy of: (physics, quantum physics, biology, biochemistry, cosmology).

Where we can dedicate ourselves body and soul to the study of the mind including (Body, spirit and soul)

I believe that we should not consciously doubt God and bend over the whole story of the bible because we have simplified and are perhaps learning to understand about God and all the creation and existence of life in which we can develop great relativities about life and build something real and that helps us to live, know and conquer life better.

I don't want to disbelieve in god nor even overcome him because I think what I want to explain is indispensable compared to god because god is god and I'm just trying to understand his creation with life and develop the best theory about life and know his creation in which we can progress towards life and the biological development of humanity and that it is much better and that all technology develops on a great system over everything in life and so we will live well developed and matured for the progress of life and that this science is studied well and thank you all!

I want to thank everyone for this valuable work and thank you very much!

POLTERGEIST FLUIDS ON MIND FORCE

I want to emphasize a good understanding with everyone about an extraordinary research on the emotional and moral fluids that extends about the great chemical development of the spirit passing to the soul and transforming itself into a metabolic function to the organism that by the substances of vitamins, proteins and mineral salts the cells are transformed emerging to the organism giving emotional functions on the organism transforming the emotions on a great relativity of certain thoughts that come from great

effects caused by the emotional and moral fluid in which the organism of a human being is led to several transformations in the dissemination of certain liquid and solid substances that pass in the smallest fraction of an atom on the mental effects causing a great emotional transformation to the human mind that we can call Poltergeist Super energy that enters into combination and emotional function causing an extraordinary transformation from one thought to another that by the action of the spirit that we call nuclear chemistry we can observe the subtle movements of the soul that supposed once and indivisible moment we can with all both positive and negative circumstances that are equivalent to more or less that we could find love and heaven bringing us good memories that we could through the cells develop large amounts of proteins, mineral salts and vitamins that supposed the action in the human being with an excellent food chain being the organism well controlled regarding the metabolism that would make the chemical process in the cells that would develop as a carbohydrate base such as glucose and the brain specifically consumes 5.6 milligrams of glucose per 100 grams of brain tissue per minute, according to Ramón de Cangas of the Spanish Academy of Dietetic Nutrition., And I want to talk about what is good for strengthening the brain?

The seven foods that boost the brain

- 1) Red fruits. These delicious berries are rich in antioxidant and anti-inflammatory compounds and thus protect our brain against damage from the brain.

aging. ...

- 2) Peanuts. ...

- 3) Dark leaves. ...

- 4) Turmeric (or turmeric) ...

- 5) Yogurt and kefir. ...

- 6) Nuts. ...

- 7) Pisces. ...

And here we can define several proteins and their functions in the emotional fluid and there are 5 foods that help in mental health that we will classify here as the best foods they are:

- Semisweet chocolate. Classic food when it comes to pleasure. ...

- Fish. ...

- Whole grains. ...

- Natural yogurt. ...

- Turmeric.

I want to emphasize a good understanding with everyone about an extraordinary research on emotional and moral fluids that extends over the great chemical development of the spirit passing to the soul and transforming into a metabolic function to the organism that, through the substances of vitamins, proteins and mineral salts the cells become emergent to the organism giving emotional functions on the organism transforming the emotions on a great relativity of certain thoughts that come from great effects caused by the emotional and moral fluid in which the organism of a human being is led to several transformations in the dissemination of certain liquid and solid substances that start to develop when we are in a good mood when we are with a great food chain that makes us function relatively the emotional fluids in which we can relax all the imperfections of life that by the good circumstances of love we can develop a good mental function that brings us happiness when the organism is well structured on a chemical reaction of the spirit on the soul in which we could talk about psychology in that we would be surprised by the good manner and education of identifying with the will and we will talk about the ego that makes us both happy and sad and in this way the human mind develops in a discipline of flow over the organism a wide variety of emotions that we can trigger a good emotion and feeling of love or feeling of hate that basically we can also admit it in the reaction of the thought that we would be more surprised as an imagination or act and effect of feeling any transformations on the mind that feels and acts through the senses that we can say that the five human senses, responsible for capturing information from the environment, are sight, hearing, taste, smell and touch. Humans have five senses traditionally known: sight, hearing, taste, smell and touch that we could relate to them and all material manifestations is classified with the relativity and chemical function of the spirit that governs and give life the creation for the soul that makes all the senses create and project themselves in life and give us the light that we call emotional fluid that in mere circumstances the mind would be and is a generator of energies that passes information to the body and the mind controls its emotions both positive and negative and so we have an atomic nucleus that thinks and feels all the relativities of the life and both love and hate reactions develop because the mind is projected onto our fantasies that through the actions of optimism that everything can become reality and the ego are transformed into health when well-being is conceived, causing a fluid effect on the celebratory emotions that drive us to feel both love when we are blissful and hate when we are inhabited and thus the chemical functions of the organism are transformed into a mental reaction that makes us love or hate and turn versa as nature reveals us and transforms us on various issues relatively in reaction of life and everything turns into something supposedly creative that makes life work and so the mind feels and reacts when it thinks and if it creates something of our wills and everything is life and fighting reaction on our emotional wills and I mean that we can develop the side of both matter and spirit because the mind works and works miracles and we are what we think and feel depending on our valuable emotions that can be constructions or destructions staying in each vibrational chain as a set of both positive and negative ideas and so it really is a mind and the cosmos reacts formatively to its relationships with the nature of life and we can develop both the spiritual side and the material side in which we name its vibrations and mental contractions on great secondary effects of the mind on its ideas and dreams and we are human beings who learn to love and to hate on a vibrational cycle of certain impulses both positive and negative and so our emotions are projected on a certain moment of reaction or destruction that we can be upset by a bad idea or transformed by a good will and so be life a logical concept and relative of construction and destruction on the mind and its emotions that would be on a good food classification that provides us with various pleasures as our egos make us win or lose due to the variety and sentimental transformation in which the thought is more favorable to the bases and emotions both love and hate and so we are perfect or we become dependent on life and its realities on us. certain moment of reaction or destruction that we can be upset by a bad idea or transformed by a good will and so life is a logical and relative concept of construction and destruction on the mind and its emotions that would be on a good food classification that provides us different pleasures as our egos make us win or lose due to the variety and sentimental transformation in which the thought is more favorable to the bases and emotions of both love and hate and so we are perfect or we become dependent on life and its realities in us. certain moment of reaction or destruction that we can be upset by a bad idea or transformed by a good will and so life is a logical and relative concept of construction and destruction on the mind and its emotions that would be on a good food classification that provides us different pleasures as our egos make us win or lose due to the variety and sentimental transformation in which the thought is more favorable to the bases and emotions of both love and hate and so we are perfect or we become dependent on life and its realities in us. food that provides us with various pleasures as our egos make us win or lose due to the variety and sentimental transformation in which the thought is more favorable to the bases and emotions of both love and hate and so we are perfect or we become dependent on life and its realities us food that provides us with various pleasures as our egos make us win or lose due to the variety and sentimental transformation in which the thought is more favorable to the bases and emotions of both love and hate and so we are perfect or we become dependent on life and its realities us

consume our nerves and depress us and want to make us know different things and we find life abstract and we fall into its modalities and we learn to live and that would be a human mind that feels and thinks all the shades of life and that is how we stay day by day and we formalize ourselves about our dreams and desires and that do not fit into fantasies and we will always be related to the will that makes us act on life and we are faced with our emotions and we will seek there deep inside the soul still an explanation for being alive and learning to live and our minds always transforming us into something superlative to life or indifferent that we can identify with reality and we can admit that we are flowing on dreams and desires and that life is a school of habits and created by the will and that only we feel all the effects and life would be an emotional set of diverse ideas that we simply touch and react with their guidelines and we can find love or hate for a matter of our will or socialist means that surprises us and that makes us look for the realities of all the facts and we want the better life and we always file our mind that makes us live the best and worst moments of our lives and we can live happily depending on our health and social well being and we will remain intact to the negative murmurs of life's disabilities and just accept the realities oppressing us a little because our emotions rehabilitate us to want to know the world up close and we fall into the decadence of life and living would be better for us. or the hatred for a question of our wills or socialist means that surprises us and that makes us look for the realities of all facts and we want a better life and we always archive our mind that makes us live the best and worst moments of our lives and we can live happily depending on our health and social well-being and we will remain intact to the negative murmurs of life's incapacities and we just accept the realities oppressing us a little because our emotions rehabilitate us to want to know the world up close and we fall into the decay of life and living it would be better for us. or the hatred for a question of our wills or socialist means that surprises us and that makes us look for the realities of all facts and we want a better life and we always archive our mind that makes us live the best and worst moments of our lives and we can live happily depending on our health and social well-being and we will remain intact to the negative murmurs of life's incapacities and we just accept the realities oppressing us a little because our emotions rehabilitate us to want to know the world up close and we fall into the decay of life and living it would be better for us. we can live happily depending on our health and social well-being and we will remain intact to the negative murmurs of life's incapacities and we just accept the realities oppressing us a little because our emotions rehabilitate us to want to know the world up close and we fall into the decay of life and the living would be better for us. we can live happily depending on our health and social well-being and we will remain intact to the negative murmurs of life's incapacities and we just accept the realities oppressing us a little because our emotions rehabilitate us to want to know the world up close and we fall into the decay of life and the living would be better for us

ways in which we can feel more pleasure in life and our emotions perhaps keep us alive by the salient life that makes us understand their reactions and so we can fight despair as a more real struggle and work and a good emotional functioning and so be the mind human a set relatively supposed to yore, indivisible moment and as short a space as an atom in the smallest fraction of an element that leads us and makes us live and so would the mind be a small universe that simply feels and makes us live through its emotions that simply give us life and the desire to know the world in which we can admit that we are going through the best and worst moments of our lives and We can observe the subtle movements of the soul that supposed once and indivisible moment we can with all positive circumstances both negative that are equivalent to more or less that we could find something better in our lives and I want to emphasize a good understanding with everyone about an extraordinary research on emotional and moral fluids that extends to the great chemical development of the spirit passing through to the soul and transforming into a metabolic function to the organism that by the substances of vitamins, proteins and mineral salts the cells are transformed emerging to the organism giving emotional functions on the organism transforming the emotions on a great relativity of certain thoughts that come from the great effects caused by the emotional and moral fluid in which the organism of a human being is led to several transformations in the dissemination of certain liquid and solid substances that pass in the smallest fraction of an atom on the mental effects causing a great emotional transformation to the human mind that we can call Super Poltergeist energy that comes into combination and emotional function causing an extraordinary transformation of one thought into another that by the action of the spirit that we call nuclear chemistry we can observe the subtle movements of the soul that supposed once and indivisible moment we can with all positive circumstances both negative that are equivalent to more or less that we could find love as much as heaven or hell where everything can be a fight reaction in contradiction to our emotions that oppresses us and gives us pleasure in which our feelings are aware of our wills as well as on earth and in heaven and we must not oppress ourselves when we know where we want do the best for us because our emotions would always make our realities more expensive because we are what we think and that way we have what we want and the mind would be more logical the contraversions of life when a definite feeling acts in our favor and so we would fit between our egos making our natures more clairvoyant than the irrational side of living that simply surprises us and makes us disbelieve in the existence of life., And what would life be like?

I believe that we are at a point of remaking ourselves in the face of all things where life can properly tell us that we need to do because we would be centered on our wills because our emotions make us believe that we think about how much we feel what we do and so we are our wills that we simply admit as a relativity about the life of our emotions and life functions in which we can work the will and we will learn to dominate life and so we are what we think and if we are on good thoughts we are happy with life and we will not be disappointed about the realities of everyday life when we dominate the fear and incapacities that make us suffer every shelf because the mind of a human being can describe every image of a dream as it can also transform a dream into a desire leaving the penalties aside and so we learn to live and control all the emotions that relate to our impulses so much of love or hate in which we simply tonify the existence of life with just a way of acting and thinking better, turning our emotions and emotional fluids into positive substances of relaxation and pleasure in which we can admit that we must exchange fear for courage as well as love for hate and so we will find heaven and we will not fear hell because it can simply be synthetically an evil circuit related to the thought in which we tolerate all desires and we will only stop being inhibited in the face of uncertain pleasures and desires because we will be conquering something that makes us live and so on. the human mind is balanced on such functions of desire that fluidly presents itself on the positive substances of relaxation and pleasure in which we can admit that we must exchange fear for courage as well as love for hate and in this way we will find heaven and we will not fear hell that simply can be synthetically an evil circuit related to thought in which we tolerate all wills and we will only stop being inhibited in the face of uncertain pleasures and desires because we will be conquering something that makes us live and thus the human mind is balanced on such functions of desire that fluidly presents itself on the positive substances of relaxation and pleasure in which we can admit that we must exchange fear for courage as well as love for hate and in this way we will find heaven and we will not fear hell that simply can be synthetically an evil circuit related to thought in which we tolerate all wills and we will only stop being inhibited in the face of uncertain pleasures and desires because we will be conquering something that makes us live and thus the human mind is balanced on such functions of desire that fluidly presents itself on the we will only stop being inhibited in the face of uncertain pleasures and desires because we will be conquering something that makes us live and thus the human mind is balanced on such functions of desire that fluidly presents itself on the human mind. we will only stop being inhibited in the face of uncertain pleasures and desires because we will be conquering something that makes us live and thus the human mind is balanced on such functions of desire that fluidly presents itself on the human mind.

life pleasure us walk from certain emotions and achievements that we are certainly controlling life and so we can live happily.

I want to thank everyone for this unforgettable research I performed on a work and a great explanation of Poltergeist fluids on the strength of the mind in which I unfold about a great formality of a very fine concept and relative to the good understanding of thinking and acting on the mind and that will serve as support for everyone to know how to conquer the best leap forward in life in which we total a psychological effect of our ideas and desires that we simply must believe the truth and forget the lie and that the mind operates and works miracles in our lives and we are what we think and we just put aside the uncertainties that prevent us from living and being happy.

THE PSYCHOANALYSIS OF EMOTIONAL AND MORAL FLUIDS

I want to emphasize a good understanding with everyone about an extraordinary research on the emotional and moral fluids that extends over the great chemical development of the spirit passing to the soul and transforming itself into a metabolic function to the organism that by the substances of vitamins, proteins and mineral salts the cells transform emerging to the organism giving emotional functions on the organism transforming emotions on a great relativity of certain thoughts that come from great effects caused by the emotional and moral fluid in which the organism of a human being is led to several transformations in the dissemination of certain liquid and solid substances that pass in the smallest fraction of an atom on the mental effects causing a great emotional transformation to the human mind.

In the theory of the soul ('psyche') created by Sigmund Freud (1856-1939, Austrian neurologist).

Therapeutic method created by S. Freud, used in cases of neurosis and psychosis, which basically consists in the interpretation, by a psychoanalyst, of the unconscious contents of an individual's words, actions and imaginary productions, based on free associations and transference.

I believe that we are going through a great transformation in which the mind can respond to a state more related to the functions of the brain that we can perform a career or a gesture by any part of the consciousness that resulting from the chemical transformations the organism retains to take various forms that makes the human being conduct himself or obstruct his functions to develop a thought that, by the circumstances of the soul generated by the chemical transformation of the spirit that in its nuclear periphery passing to the liquid state of matter everything reacts and turns into thought alive that give us the chance to think and act through the senses when we can achieve something substantial through the five senses, which are related to the perception of the internal and external environment, are smell, taste, sight, hearing and touch. The internal and external environment provide a great variety of sensations,

Who made the theory of moods?

Hippocrates (460-370 BC) considered the "father of medicine", although medicine has existed since Ancient Egypt with the philosopher and poet Imhotep (2655-2600 BC), he developed a medical model based on the four elements of Empedocles and attributed its characteristics to four humors (from the Latin humor, bodily fluid).

Theory of Moods:

It is important to locate the word “humor” in history: in Greco-Roman antiquity, the term related to liquids and fluids. The evolution of its meaning developed towards “state of mind”. A “good-humored” subject, therefore, would be someone with good moods/liquids inside.

So, to understand the Theory of Moods, we must understand its roots:

The Greek philosopher Empedocles (c.495-435 BC) suggested that the four elements (water, air, fire and earth) and their characteristics (temperature and humidity/dryness) could explain the existence of any substance.

The physician Hippocrates (460 BC-377 BC), considered the father of Western Medicine, had philosophy as his ally. Thus, he developed a medical model based on these four elements, attributing their characteristics to body fluids.

– the moods. Thus, health would result from its balance, while excesses and lacks would explain disease states.

It was with the physician Galen (c.129-c.201 AD) that Hippocratic medicine reached its peak. He expanded the theory, relating it to the personality and emotional and behavioral inclinations of individuals.

Soon, the theory of moods/temperaments was developed. It consists in the hypothesis that each body is formed by mixtures of the four elements, so that each being would be born with a combination of them.

The predominance of some element would lead to a temperament. They would be:

- Sanguine – in subjects who have excessive blood. Its resulting characteristics would be joy, optimism, confidence and extroversion.
- Phlegmatic – in subjects who have excessive phlegm. Its resulting characteristics would be shyness, apathy, slowness, tiredness and coherence.
- Choleric – in subjects who have excessive yellow bile. Its resulting characteristics would be irritability, intensity, impulsiveness and speed.
- Melancholic – in subjects who have excessive black bile. Its resulting characteristics would be artistic inclination, sadness, fear and introversion.

Thus, for the promotion of health, the scholar recommended care in relation to the environment, sleep, rest, food and passions.

His sayings lasted until the renaissance when new research came along.

Although the theory is not part of current Psychology, its contribution in the area was remarkable. Furthermore, it is worth mentioning that she contributed to the studies of Kant, Wundt and the Society of Jesus.

I want to emphasize a good understanding with everyone about an extraordinary research on the emotional and moral fluids that extends about the great chemical development of the spirit passing to the soul and transforming itself into a metabolic function to the organism that by the substances of vitamins, proteins and mineral salts the cells are transformed emerging to the organism giving emotional functions on the organism transforming the emotions on a great relativity of certain thoughts that come from great effects caused by the emotional and moral fluid in which the organism of a human being is led to several transformations in the dissemination of certain liquid and solid substances that pass in the smallest fraction of an atom on the mental effects causing a great emotional transformation to the human mind.

I want to say that certain things come from others as my psychoanalysis relates to the modification and emotional developments due to certain chemical combinations of certain substances that develop in the organism giving us a synthesis that the world originated from a great transformation that was densely hot and exploded causing in the relativity of life and existence the life that in mere circumstances we can say that the mind works and works miracles due to its protein content in which the spirit goes into a state of toning that resurrects the matter that in alchemy we can prescribe that in everything there is a magic in which, based on nature, everything would be transmutable and transformable that we can classify as a state of grace also speaking of the spiritual development called holy spirit when alchemy reaches its highest point, reaching 90 degrees, which transforms all organic substances into a great natural relativity that combines and passes to a certain state of chemical transformation of the spirit that enters the chemical functions of the organism in which it is created on the life an atom that means an atomic nucleus as the key to all organic relativities forming a life and so we prescribe all the emotional and moral fluids that govern human nature, purposefully in various questions of feeling and thought that are transformed by the nuclear energy of the spirit, nuclear chemistry, making a thousand ways to feel like loving, hate and much more when nature oscillates us with the relative functioning of the organism that is in every biochemical relationship transforming us into several personalities that we can classify the mind as a generator of several submissions that shows us the most humane way of living and so we can prescribe the human mind and its monotony as well as its more than secret desires as a way of loving or hating leading us to the best or worst relationship with social life that can both oppress us and transform us into true geniuses in which all nature can show us and educate us according to life.

I want to emphasize a good understanding with everyone about an extraordinary research on the emotional and moral fluids that extends over the great chemical development of the spirit passing to the soul and transforming itself into a metabolic function to the organism that by the substances of vitamins, proteins and mineral salts the cells transform emerging to the organism giving emotional functions on the organism transforming the emotions on a great relativity of certain thoughts that come from great effects caused by the emotional and moral fluid in which the organism of a human being is led to several transformations in the dissemination of certain liquid and solid substances that pass in the smallest fraction of an atom on the mental effects causing a great emotional transformation to the human mind and I want to thank you for my great enthusiasm and study and I want all scientists with a master's degree in social psychology and many scientific geniuses to be able to obtain great information from my great discovery and to take it forward to develop a great research and theory on the relativities of man with human nature in which he can develop in your class on every organic function a great exploration on the development of the mental and moral fluid that we can develop great and extraordinary works on the most versatile mechanics of life and thank you all very much and I want to thank everyone from the great EDU academy and I want to say that my studies are the foundations of my creation and thought that I have always researched in the area of modern science for the great future that awaits us with open doors and thank you very much to all of you!
