

A CALIFORNIAN DREAM

I woke up from a crazy dream that sighed intently against me while listening to beautiful romantic songs before going to sleep that inspired me and dedicated me to the dances of the great Californian city, while in that dream I was certainly full of desire to meet someone, who certainly that person was in my dreams and could be a great fiction of my best fantasies that made me love the beautiful American girl who certainly came face to face with me When I was really captivated by love and pleasure and then I came across you who always made me never forget the old snow girl who made me for a simple pleasure find a way to live where in my dreams I was alone with you. Hugs!

By: Roberto Barros